City of Loveland

Annual Data and Assumptions Report – January 1, 2009

This report provides general information regarding the City’s population, housing, economy and City facilities and services. This information is intended to serve as the basis for projections and assumptions in operational and financial plans generated by City departments and divisions. We also hope this report will provide information for citizens, organizations and businesses outside the City to assist in preparing reports, feasibility studies, market studies, etc. It is intended that access to this central source of information will ensure better consistency in the assumptions and information included in such reports. For example, included in the report is a population estimate and projection. All documents, plans, web pages and information disseminated from City departments should quote population numbers or estimates as presented in this report. The report will be updated annually.

Power RatesResidential customers

In 2008, residential customers pay 5.969 cents per kilowatt-hour (kWh), which is still below the 1984 cost of 6.55 cents per kWh. The monthly base charge remains at $4.00.

Small Businesses

Small business owners and other commercial customers have competitive rates compared to neighboring electric utilities.

Large Commercial and Industrial Customers

Electric rates and demand charges for large commercial and industrial customers are competitive with surrounding utilities. Because of variations between energy use and demand, each industrial customer must be benchmarked individually.
